

Athena Speaks

By Agapi Stassinopoulos

Come into my temple of wisdom,
Where your thoughts are clear
And your heart is brave.
I'll come with you into the battlefield,
And you will win.
I'll show you how to triumph
Where proud men take up arms.
I know a wiser way,
So your victory will be sweet.
My mercy and soulful guidance
Are always with you.
You'll know your power, your centre.
You'll be shielded and protected.
My sword of truth will cut the way.
So you'll know your way back home.
I brought Ulysses back to Ithaca,
Whispering in his ear
Words of courage and support,
So he never lost sight of the light
Even in the darkest hours.
Bright-eyed Athena they call me.
Embrace me, and you'll have dominion over your thoughts,
And with your bright brilliant mind and strength
You'll have the ear of all men.
I'll weave you a map of the world
And you'll know the pitfalls
Where not to go
So you'll travel always safe.
Life with me is the art of
Weaving all things together
For the good of all.
The time has come.
You are needed in the world.
Come, follow me,
I'll be your inspiration
I'll lead you to the all knowing spirit
Which dwells you in.