

The Inner Lover

*I could walk on water so you'll know I love you
I could give you wings and you can come flying with me
And you'll know I love you
I could do arabesques and pirouettes
Dance the polka or drop a million stars at your feet
And you'll know I love you
Or I could have every blade of grass
Sing "I love you", in harmony till
Every cell of your billion cells
Will hear it loud and clear
But your mind somehow still won't believe it
So I wait in the corner for you to turn around
Letting you search for me
Going through your ups and downs
Take the million mile journey
Do siddha yoga postures until the cows come home
Wail and cry, "Where are you!?"
Feel hurt, betrayed, rejected, alone and abandoned
I'll let you do all that
Because when you find me
You'll feel it's worthwhile
So I'm not going to take the journey away from you
I won't deny you the right to know
That you now deserve to know me
I, however, never put conditions in my love
You did
I threw a million daisy petals at your feet
So you can play the game
"He loves me, he loves me not"
But you somehow managed to always end it
In the Not
So I will let you be in your search for me
Til one moment you'll exhale, let go, turn around
And you will fall in my embrace
And know the immensity of my Love
And that you and I are One*
